Fferins
of Brooklyn

FFERINS Fferins is an old-fashioned sweet shop. We are a married couple who live locally, with our six year old twins, who can often be found helping out in the store. We all lend a hand at the store and this is truly a family business. Our aim is to provide a great customer experience, and to become a beloved fixture in the community. fferinsofbrooklyn.com

HAZEL VILLAGE Deep in a leafy grove, the clever animals of Hazel Village live in their neat little houses, happy and free. They keep their perky ears attuned to the sounds of their forest home, and use their wits to do helpful and kind projects for their neighbors. hazelvillage.com

ALYOOP In today's digital world, kids should be encouraged to get outside, play and use their imagination. I built the Alyoop brand to offer comfortable clothes for kids to play in and be adventurous, while still looking good and making a fashion statement. I wanted to design a clothing line which captures the free-spirited style of my daughter and the happy, inquisitive nature of my son. alyoopthreads.com

LUCY DALTON JEWELRY Lucy Dalton's love of handmade semi-precious jewelry comes from growing up immersed in her family's NYC jewelry business. "My deep love for handmade pieces comes from watching my father, Valentino Banduci, go from drawing pieces, to molding, to casting and finally to setting. It made me understand that hand making goods is possible and can bring incredible joy and satisfaction." Lucy's designs are for all women from all walks of life. "As a designer, retailer, mom, wife and NYC native, I understand what women like to wear and I strive to give it to them." -Lucy Dalton

JOYCE RILEY ART

Joyce Riley is a local mom (Jonah - 7), artist, high school art teacher, neighborhood art teacher, Airbnb host and lover of Windsor Terrace. Growing up amidst the steel mills of Northwest Indiana, Joyce feels drawn to industrial landscapes like the water towers of NYC. Using less-traditional materials like enamel paint, wood, plexiglas and steel, she leaves a bit of the surface exposed. Her obsession with color, shape, pattern and her son is difficult to ignore in her paintings and works on paper. joyceriley.nyc
